About

This program would help to provide access to rich language and literary texts, strategic research-based activities, interactive resources, materials & tools, family support and training opportunities for implementation and integration.

One of the most powerful literary opportunities we can provide to children is our ability to make read alouds and shared language experiences become something magical. Shared, meaningful literacy experiences include readily-available and easy-to-use materials and resources right at your fingertips.

We know that language and literacy learning can happen anywhere. The Ride and Read program utilizes diverse texts and a multitude of engaging resources to make learning fun. Travel totes are filled with activities, materials, and tools to morph travel into a dynamic literacy and language rich experience. You can create ongoing opportunities to magnify experiences into brilliant and memorable activities. These opportunities involve transforming learning into imaginative places where vibrant storybook characters come to life and language skills are deepened. Sheer passion and sparkle will bring life to the many marvelous texts children will grow to love and emulate.

You have the power to elevate language and literacy learning into an electrifying championship where children celebrate the remarkable experiences that text and joyful interaction can provide them.

So, let's get started - because language and literacy learning can happen anywhere, anytime.
